

Doylestown's Miller attains Eagle

On May 3, Doylestown resident Zachary Miller of Boy Scout Troop 6 was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout at his Eagle Court of Honor at Doylestown United Methodist Church, the troop's sponsor.

Speaking on his behalf were family friends James Reick and David Matagiese and Susan Salvsen, principal of Doyle Elementary. Also in attendance and commending Miller was Congressman Michael Fitzpatrick, state Rep. Marguerite Quinn and Barbara Lyons, Doylestown Township's chairman of the board of supervisors.

Miller began his trail to Eagle as a Cub Scout with Pack 24 and crossed out to Troop 6 in 2008.

His Eagle Service Project provided planning and leadership for fundraising, purchasing and installation of a gaga pit for Doylestown Elementary. Miller coached and enabled the student body of Doyle to raise more than $9,000 to pay for the gaga pit and the preparation of the area to make it a safe playing environment.

Miller is a sophomore at Central Bucks West and is looking forward to studying sports medicine and becoming a physical therapist.

Carl Jung play showing at St. Philip's in New Hope

St. Philip's Episcopal Church in New Hope hosts "Dancing With Daemons, and a God in Your Pocket," a first-run performance based on "The Red Book" by Carl Jung, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, May 31.

The performance is based on a series of personal journals that Jung compiled around the time that he broke off his relationship with Sigmund Freud. Jung had been a disciple of Freud, but he found himself in disagreement with many of Freud's understandings of human consciousness.

In the process of forming his own understandings, he went through a difficult time in his own life. In his autobiography, "Memories, Dreams, Reflections," Jung calls this time his "confrontation with the unconscious."

"The Red Book," the compilation of several journals, was created in the early 20th century and shared privately. It was not published for the general public until 2009, nearly 50 years after Jung's death. The work consists of paintings, stories and theoretical explorations of the concepts that would later come to be identified as analytical psychology.

Since that time, many of Jung's concepts have come into the vocabulary of the general public.

Concepts in this common knowledge include: archetype, anima/animus, shadow, introvert/extravert and synchronicity, to name just a few that were coined by Jung.

The performance is a form of active imagination that shares the ideas of Jung through the filter of Ray Gray's oral storytelling. "The Red Book" is infinitely more complex than the stories that can be told in one performance. Gray does not pretend to be in any way comprehensive in presenting the ideas of this work. At best he hopes to share the process, not the product of Jung's thinking in "The Red Book."

The performance is free, but an offering will be taken to benefit the community outreach of St. Philip's, 10 Chapel Road, New Hope.

Warminster author pens book about Jews' freedom from slavery

Warminster author Richard Ludwig's new book, "SOON: You Will Be Free," a tale about Moses as he attempts to offer freedom to the slaves of Egypt, is set to be released soon.

It was a normal day in the year 1475BCE when a stranger appeared in Egypt. He told the Jewish slaves his name was Moses and he had come from another country because God commanded him to force the Pharaoh to free them from slavery.

Who was this man? Did God really talk to him? How could this strange person force the Pharaoh, the most powerful man on earth, to let them go free?

Ludwig, now in his 80s, was born and raised in Pennsylvania. He has written a many articles for magazines and has a business book to his credit.

His new book published by Tate Publishing and Enterprises, is available through bookstores nationwide and online.

St. Stephen's in Perkasie to restore bell tower

St. Stephen's United Church of Christ, 110 N. 6th St., Perkasie, is restoring its bell tower.

At 6 a.m. Friday, May 23, the contractor will begin work to temporarily remove the 2,000-pound cast bronze bell.

The restoration includes repointing the entire tower — estimated to be 50- to 55-feet high — refinishing all trim elements; removing the old roof and installing a new copper roof under the bell; and removing the metal roof and flashing and installing a copper roof and flashing on two sides of the tower.

It also includes installing new wood timbers to mount the bell on; sandblasting and painting iron grates; enlarging roof access in the tower; replacing the old, homemade wooden ladder in the tower with a heavy-duty fiberglass ladder; and replacing metal bird protection screens with netting.
